

Proposal to Introduce Closure on C. N. R. Bill Followed by Lively Scenes in House-- Warm Exchanges

Spirited Debate Recreates Action By Finance Minister—Hon. William Fugate Objects To Ruling Of Deputy Speaker—By Majority Of 24 House Sustains Official—Later Deputy Speaker Is Charged By Opposition Members With Ignoring Liberal Member In Favor Of Sir Thomas White And Excited Moments Ensued—"Call In The Police," Shouted The Conservatives; "Call In MacKenzie And Mann; Call In Sir Clifford Sifton," Retorted Opposition.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
LONDON, Aug. 27.—The proposition that the clause of the bill should be invoked to secure the passage by the house of the Canadian Northern Railroad legislation was verified at 10 o'clock tonight, when Sir Thomas White, finance minister, invoked rule 17 in order to make headway with the bill.

Some exciting scene followed. Clause 1 of the bill, which provides for the acquisition by the government of the 500,000 remaining shares of the Great Northern Railway not in the possession of the company, was the subject of consideration since the bill went into committee last week. Tonight Sir Thomas moved that further consideration be deferred until the 10th inst.

Thomas White moved an amendment of which previous notice had been given, to the effect that not more that formal notice could be given under the closure rule that consideration in committee would be completed at the next sitting of the house.

Deputy Speaker's Object

When the rule was invoked, Hon. William Pugsley immediately appealed on the ground that notice should have been given. The deputy speaker did not sustain his objection and the speaker was sent for. The ruling of the deputy speaker was that the vote of 42 to 24, a government majority of 18. Dr. Michael Clark and J. C. Turritt voted with the government.

The motion of the minister of finance came after a spirited debate. Sir Thomas White moved that the house was to sit all summer some progress would have to be made. He asserted that the discussion during the sitting than twenty-five million dollars can be spent on the Canadian Northern Railroad without estimates being passed and an exact accounting must be given to the house after the assembling of parliament.

After E. M. McDonald and J. E. Macrell of Bagot had spoken to clause 3, Sir Thomas White moved that the committee pass on to clause 4.

A Wild Scene

A wild scene occurred because Hon. Wm. Pugsley and other opposition members maintained that Deputy Speaker Rainville had turned his back on L. J. Gauthier, who had risen to continue the discussion.

Deputy Speaker Pugsley said vehemently that the debate should not be stopped and that Mr. Gauthier had the floor.

Sir Thomas White said that he had had related rather to the second reading of the bill than to the committee stage, when details are under consideration.

The minister was preceded by Hon. Charles H. H. Stewart.

given way on this clause for two speeches and that he was desirous of making further progress.

Veterans At Meeting In Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27.—Lieut. J. K. L. Ross, R. N., chairman of the board of pension commissioners, in addressing the Great War Veterans tonight, admitted that the present scale of amirance can be seen. The pensioners have too low in view of the steadily increasing cost of living, and add that the government would not pass any new pension legislation "below the purse" of the country. At the present rate of pensions, and taking into consideration the probable demands on the fund, he calculated that an annual sum of $40,000,000 would be required, which represented a capital of $800,000,000.

Italians Using Sensational Device

A vivid description of a joint Italian and British naval bombardment of the Hermada, the principal fortress barring the way to Trieste, and a marvelous Italian infantry advance up fortified terraces of this great defensive position, tells of the employment of a sensational Italian device used for the first time in this momentous battle. Its results are disclosed but a description of the device is withheld. It is said to have destroyed one after another.

According to an official account this new instrument of warfare is being employed in dropping shells on the city of Trieste, the principal Austrian port. Its fire is sweeping the Herma-

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MARTIN

Vera B.: Your skin will grow soft, clear and smooth after a few applications of a plain almond jelly-cream, made at home as follows: Put 4 tablespoonfuls of glycerine into 1/2 pint water, and to this dissolve 1 ounce almond oil (which you can buy at your drug store). Apply a thick coat of this to skin before retiring, then wash off in the morning and use more of the jelly-cream for massaging. This gradually dispels the wrinkles and lines and banishes pimples, and the "muddy" skin look. The almond jelly-cream is grassless and will not grow hair.

Mrs. A. T.: You may not require glasses. Get from your druggist one ounce crystals and dissolve it in one pint water. Then put a few drops in the offending eye several times a day until inflammation and soreness have vanished. The crystals are tonic, especially good for granulated eyelids, and using it strengthens the eyes and gives them a youthful sparkle.

Adeline: The reason for that dryness of hair after your shampoo is because that kind of soap irritates the scalp tissues and makes them over-sensitive. Canthrox will correct this, for it is a tonic as well as cleanser and is stimulating to the blood vessels and scalp tissues that the danger is entirely eliminated. To prepare your shampoo dissolve a teaspoonful of Canthrox in a cup of hot water, then pour it slowly on the head as you rub briskly. This dissolves every trace of dirt, dandruff and excess oil, and after rinsing the hair will dry quickly and evenly.

Lucy G.: Loss of weight is a serious matter and calls for prompt action. Get from your druggist one ounce karden and put it, together with 1/2-cupful sugar, into 1/2-pint alcohol; then add hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This simple home remedy increases your appetite and gently cleanses the system of impurities, restores a healthy condition to the vital organs. When this is done your weight will be normal and the glow of health will be upon your cheeks.

Mrs. A. R. J.: I make a good lotion that is very light to my skin by dissolving 4 ounces spermacin in 1/2-pint water to make a full quart, which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, which will soon correct that oily, yellow, "worn-out" appearance of your complexion. This simple lotion is soothing and healing and imparts a velvety smoothness and natural loveliness to the complexion, not possible with powder and rouge. You will like the spermacin lotion because it is easily applied and cannot be detected when on.

Lucille: I always use a plain quinine hair tonic, made at home by pouring one ounce quinine into 1/2-pint alcohol, then adding 1/2-pint water. Rub a little into the scalp twice a week and you will soon rid the scalp of dandruff and restore the hair roots to health. The regular use of quinine will restore the former gloss and even color to the hair and makes it soft, long and fluffy.

Mrs. M. N. T.: Your excess weight can be easily and quickly reduced by taking this parrot's treatment, made at home as follows: Put 4 ounces parrots (which you can get at your drug store) in 1/2-pint hot water and strain when cool. Take a tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. No harm results from this use of the parrot's treatment, and the flesh is left solid and the skin soft and smooth.

TODAY'S INQUIRIES

How should rubbers for preserve jars be sterilized?
Rubber rings for preserve jars should not be boiled to sterilize them as too much heating injures the rubber; wash them in hot water to which a little soda has been added.

Why is a false bottom necessary for a wash boiler when canning products by the cold-pack method?
A false bottom is necessary for a wash boiler when canning products by the cold-pack method in order to allow the water to circulate freely around each jar.

What kind of bottom can be made for a wash boiler to be used in canning?
A false bottom for a wash boiler to be used in canning can be made by placing laths crosswise, perforated boards or tin or a wire tray in the bottom.

String Beans—Use tender beans that have been freshly picked. Wash and string them from both ends. Blanch them from 3 to 5 minutes, then give them a cold dip and drain. Pack into sterilized jars and fill jars with boiled cooled water. Add 1 teaspoonful salt to each quart. Adjust rubbers and tops, screw loosely. Place jars in water, heat their depth in boiler. Are His Intentions Serious?
To the Editor of Woman's Page:
Dear Madam—I am a young lady twenty-three years of age and have had a young man calling on me for four years. He is four years older than I am. He comes about twice a week as a rule and takes me to the movies, to the theatre, to the races, etc. I don't think he goes to see any other girls. Do you think he wants to marry me?

GRACE
The young man is evidently interested in you, but the fact that he calls upon you does not necessarily mean marriage.

Rice Pudding With Variations
To the Editor of Woman's Page:
Dear Madam—Some of your readers might like to know how I vary the common everyday variety of rice pudding. One way to make the pudding in layers. Have the rice freshly cooked and drained, mix plenty of butter and sugar through it; also a blade of mace broken up and some grated lemon peel. Place a layer of rice in the bottom of the buttered baking dish, then a layer of fruit preserves, stoned and shredded dates or scalded raisins. Add a little preserved ginger or citron, sliced thin, to each layer and fill up the dish with alternate layers of each, having a layer of fruit on top. Make a custard of two beaten eggs and a pint of milk, with a pinch of salt, pour it over the pudding, let stand for one-half hour, then cover and bake fifteen minutes, after which the top should be removed and the pudding allowed to brown. A meringue can be placed on top if liked. When I make a plain rice pudding I usually add both nutmeg and vanilla and turn the skin in five or six times to make it creamy.

MRS. J. J.
Thank you, Mrs. J. J., your pudding sounds delicious. I agree with you that rice pudding properly made is quite different from the watery mixture which is so often palmed off as rice pudding.

Engaged Couple on Vacation
To the Editor of Woman's Page:
Dear Madam—I am a young girl twenty-two years of age and engaged to be married to a young man the same age. We want to spend our vacation at the seashore at the same hotel, but recently a friend has hinted that she thought it was not the proper thing to do. What would your advice be? Don't you think when two persons are engaged to be married, it is perfectly right to do this? None of my family can go with me.

L. L. M.
I can understand your wanting to be together, but I do not think it would be wise for you to go to the same hotel; it would certainly not be exactly conventional. Why don't you persuade your fiancé to put up at another hotel at the same resort?

WEDDINGS

On Saturday, August 25th, a unique wedding took place at "Rust Lodge," Seba Beach, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. The bride was becomingly arrayed in white and was given away by her father. The home was prettily decorated with wild berries and flowers. An arch of the masses of white flowers and greenery, and berries was artistically arranged under which the ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. H. Famous Women
Cecilia de Rygeway.
Long protracted fasts have been essayed by various men and women for many hundreds of years. One of the first instances on record is the case of Cecilia, wife of John de Rygeway, who lived in the reign of King Edward III. Cecilia was charged with the murder of her husband and was put into Nottingham gaol. Here she remained mute and refused meat and drink for a period of forty days, when her case was called to the attention of the king, who "moved with pity and for the glory of God and the Blessed Virgin," granted the woman a pardon. Another curious case of fasting, this one because food was repulsive, is that of a young French girl, Christina Michel, who in 1751 was attacked with a fever, after which she had absolutely no desire for food. She lived on water. From November, 1751, to July, 1752, she did not touch a bit of solid food. After this period her appetite seemed to return and was normal for the rest of her life. In 1774 attention was drawn to the case of Monica Mutcheteria, a Swabian woman, who had been attacked by a fever and nervous malady several years before. For two years she could take no other nourishment than a little curds and whey and water; for another year she took no food at all, nor did anything else pass her lips, while during the whole three years she did not sleep.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1917

The meatless days which have been imposed upon the people of Canada for the past two years by increasing prices are shown in a Government report to have resulted in piling up millions of pounds of meat in cold storage warehouses. On this meat either the people of Canada or the Allied peoples will have to pay storage charges and speculators' profits. If the appeal for more meatless days is to be given a fair chance of success the Government will have to provide some assurance that the Allied peoples and not private parties are to get the benefit of further public self-denial. Canadians may be enlisted in an army of meat savers if they are given to know that the result of their saving will be to feed their hungry Allies and help to win the war. They cannot be rallied in an enthusiastic response to an appeal for self-denial which they have cause to believe would only result in tightening the grip of food-gamblers on both themselves and their Allies. Knowledge of what steps the Government propose to take to secure the benefit to the public of this and Allied countries is a condition precedent to the response that is desired and desirable to the appeal for the people to eat still less meat.

Conservative newspapers are protesting, with some show of apprehension, that there would be no gain in having got rid of Mr. Rogers if Sir Clifford Sifton is to be invited to take his place in the Government. This seems a strange sort of protest. A month ago Conservative papers were admonishing Western Liberals in the name of patriotism to forget Sir Clifford's past and accept him as their leader—thus qualifying him for a place in the Government. Now it is claimed that it would not help the prestige and efficiency of the Government to take him in. Sir Clifford has not changed in the meantime. He is just as able a man now as he was then, just as patriotic, and just as much fitted to be a member of the Government. Nothing has changed but the position Sir Clifford occupies. A month ago he was conspiring to split the Liberal party and to accept a place in the Government as the representative of one section of it. Now, if he were included in the government he would have to represent the Conservative party or no party. Sir Clifford as a would-be wrecker of the Liberal party got all the support they could give him from the Conservative papers, and was entirely welcome to a portfolio as his reward provided Liberals could be held responsible for his administrative record. Now none so poor as to do him reverence, and the suggestion that he be given a portfolio on the responsibility of the Conservative party brings lively protests from the party press. Such is the estimate of Sir Clifford among those with whom he threw in his lot six years ago. Such also is the non-partisan brand of patriotism which the press of his new-found friends profess so loudly; they refuse to accept party responsibility for a man whom a month ago they proclaimed so indispensable to the country that it would be sheer treason on the part of Western Liberals to refuse him as their leader and representative in a coalition Government.

Popular willingness to save wheat would be stimulated if it were known that the already available wheat supply in Canada was being actually sent overseas, and that the Allied peoples were getting it at prices proportioned to the price got by the Canadian farmer. An impression prevails that there has not been as great activity in shipping Canadian wheat to the needy peoples of Europe as there has been in urging the Canadian people to eat something else and spare the wheat. If that impression is correct the result of further self-denial on the part of the public will be to cram the elevators in Canada with wheat which the milling trust may acquire at depressed prices and re-sell to the public as flour at hold-up prices. Whether correct or not, the impression that the wheat has not been going forward is doing nothing to cultivate a willingness on the part of the public to do without wheat. That disposition would be stimulated by an official statement showing that the result of the public self-denial is going to the Allied peoples, and not to the Canadian milling trust and associated interests.

An undue regard for precedent, and an undue regard for the "right" of the individual to exploit his fellows if he sees a chance, are shackles which stay the hand of the Canadian Government—as they have stayed the hand of every other democratic government—in regard to the regulation of the food supply and prices. In normal times a regard for precedent is one of the safeguards of democracy against dangerous adventures into the field of political experiment. In normal times liberty of the individual to do business without Governmental interference is the mainspring of economic activity. But the times are not normal. They are abnormal, and demand measures out of the ordinary. When the world is facing famine the situation is not met by restricting Government initiative to the limits for which precedent can be found in times of peace and plenty. When a few are amassing fortunes out of the agony of the race the rule no longer holds that individual enterprise is only induced by leaving the individual free to take all he can lay hands on. These are times to make precedents, not to look for them; to restrict profiteering, not to encourage it. The ordinary policy of Government is not bringing about the increase of food production that should be brought about in Canada; it is time for a new policy, a policy created for the purpose of producing food, not that of maintaining the authority of precedent. The free play of the law of supply and demand does not fix prices when the supply is cornered by a coterie of speculators and the demand artificially intensified; it is time for a new policy, a policy created for the purpose of protecting the public against exploitation, not of encouraging individual enterprise by hope of excessive gain. Canada, and the Allied cause, demand a Government which will find means of producing two tons of food where one is now produced; and of bringing and keeping the cost of life's necessities within reach of the earning power of people who are not wealthy. Precedents count for nothing, and the profiteers should go overboard. What Governments have done, or not done, in the past is irrelevant. We are not living in the past, nor in the conditions of the past. We are facing a new situation, and must meet it by new departures in Government initiative.

BOMBS ON DUTCH GROUND
Amsterdam, Aug. 27.—Bombs were again dropped on Dutch territory Saturday evening, by airmen of unknown nationality. The missiles fell just inside the frontier near Cadzand and Zeeland, but no damage was done.

WOUNDED MEN ON WAY WEST
Quebec, Aug. 27.—All the invalids that arrived at Halifax last week-end passed through Quebec by rail yesterday and proceeded westward. Another batch of overseas men will arrive here this evening.

THEN AND NOW

When battles were fought
With a chivalrous sense of should and ought.

"In spirit men said,
"End we quick or dead,
Honor is some reward!"

Let us fight fair—for our own best or worst.

So, gentlemen of the Guard,
Fire first!"

In the open they stood,
Man to man in his knightly mood:
They would not deign
To profit by a stain
On the honorable rules,
Knowing that practice forday no man
durst

Who in the heroic schools
Was nursed.

But now, behold, what
Is war with those where honor is not!
Hama laments
Its dead innocents:
Heraud howls: "Sly slaughter
Rules now! Let us, by modes once called accursed,
Overhand, under water,
Slab first!"

ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Bulletin to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the questioner. This information is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Difference in Survey.

To the Bulletin: Why is the survey of the city east of 101st street so different from that west of 101st street?

West of 101st street was part of the reserve granted to the Hudson's Bay Company, while the land to the east was subdivided river lots granted to the pioneer settlers. These river lots extended from the river bank to Rat Creek, where Norwood boulevard now is.

PREACH THE GOSPEL OF UNITY

From Forest (Ont.) Free Press:

Unscrupulous ranters in Quebec falsely declare that that Province is in danger of "English domination," and equally unscrupulous ranters in Ontario talk of "French domination."

There is no now, nor was there ever any such danger, and the ranters in both provinces should be suppressed, because they are a menace and a danger to the peace and unity of Canada.

In these days, when the patriotic citizens are carrying a load of anxiety that is taxing their utmost strength the promotion of internal strife in race and creed affiliations is the most damnable kind of treason. If there are not a sufficient number of strong and true men in both provinces to guide the people along sane and safer paths the result will be disaster, probably irrevocable disaster.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—C. A. Silverthorne, reeve of Etobicoke township, and Jimmy Harbott, aged four years, were instantly killed on Sunday by being thrown from Mr. Silverthorne's automobile in a collision with a special car of the Toronto and Guelph radial railway.

The Real "War Bread"

must contain the entire wheat grain—not the white flour center—but every particle of gluten and mineral salts—also the outer bran coat that is so useful in keeping the bowels healthy and active. Shredded Wheat Biscuit is the real "war bread" because it is 100 per cent. whole wheat prepared in a digestible form. Contains no yeast, baking powder, seasoning, or chemicals of any kind. Food conservation begins with Shredded Wheat Biscuit for breakfast and ends with Shredded Wheat Biscuit for supper. Delicious with sliced bananas, berries, or other fruits. Made in Canada.

C.N.R. DEAL

From Hansard Report, Aug. 18:

Mr. Sinclair: The hon. gentleman has voted to advance $50,000,000 since that resolution was moved. If he had adopted the resolution moved on this side of the House he would have saved $30,000,000.

Mr. Meighen: No, the resolution said that if we had adopted that agreement we would advance $45,000,000, and would be able to get the common stock at $30,000,000 extra.

Mr. Oliver: I think this committee has something more important to deal with than the question of three or four years ago. I submit that, whether our policy was well-judged or ill-judged, has nothing to do with the responsibilities resting on the shoulders of the Government today. It is only fair, however, to consider the difference in the circumstances between the conditions today. At the time these matters were under consideration three years ago Parliament was considering the guarantee of $45,000,000 of bonds of the Canadian Northern. The guarantee had not been given, but was under discussion. At that time war had not broken out, and conditions were vastly different from those existing today. I do not think it is profitable, or to the point, that we should be instructed as to what one member or another member on this side of the House did three years ago, under circumstances entirely different.

What was done then was done for good and sufficient reason, and what is being done today is being done for good and sufficient reasons, on our side of the House at any rate.

Changed Conditions

Does the Government realize the difference between the conditions as they exist now, and as they were three years ago, when they gave that guarantee of $45,000,000? What was the debt of Canada at that time? Was it $100,000,000? What is it today? $1,200,000,000, or thereabouts, as I understood the Finance Minister to say. Are the conditions the same in assuming a responsibility such as this, with a debt of $1,200,000,000, and the debt going to come from, if we are to meet the stupendous obligations that have piled up against us, and are piling up against us from day to day, which arise from circumstances not under our control, should we not take every care to restrict the growth of obligations that are under our control? Is that not a reason why we should most carefully consider the taking over of the vast responsibility of the Canadian Northern Railway, if that could possibly be avoided, and is it not a reason why we should consider carefully the payment of money for something that has no value?

Eleven Millions Would Give Control

We are to buy $50,000,000 of the stock of this Canadian Northern Railway Company, for what purpose? To give us control of the railway company and of the railway. We do not need to buy $50,000,000 stock of the company in order to get control of it. Mackenzie and Mann have control of the railway today and they have only $51,000,000 of that stock, and we could have control of the railway just as complete as Mackenzie and Mann have, if we acquired $11,000,000 of the stock. Therefore, the purchase by this Government of the difference between $11,000,000 and $50,000,000 of stock has absolutely no warrant whatever, except that it is in the nature of a hand-out to the parties concerned.

Has Canada money to throw away under such circumstances? It is confiscation to leave in the hands of whoever may happen to own it today $49,000,000 of the stock that they own? There is no connection about that.

Mr. Meighen: Does the hon. gentleman think it would be fair to the people of Canada to acquire eleven per cent more, own fifty one per cent, take control, and thereby finance the company, continue to finance it, and leave in the hands of private stockholders forty-nine per cent, which stock would get the whole benefit of that financing, and ultimately become of great value?

For Relief of the Bank of Commerce

Mr. Oliver: I am not so sure that the stock will ultimately become of great value, as a result of Government operation of the road, but I am sure it will become of great value as a result of this bargain. I am satisfied the arbitration provided for in this Act will in fact, as in intent, convey to the owners of that stock money out of the treasury of Canada out of proportion to the value of the stock as a business proposition. It will mean depletion of the treasury of Canada; it will mean injury to the credit of Canada, for the benefit of the parties interested in that stock. Now we know who is interested in the stock, it is Mackenzie and Mann, but the Bank of Commerce. It is not a matter of rumor or of supposition that the Bank of Commerce is one of that financial group in Toronto that has a stranglehold on the progress and prosperity of the Dominion; that group to render advantage to which this Government exists and for the benefit of which the Government has shaped its legislation since it took office. Today, for the advantage of that member of the group, it proposes to make such a raid on the Dominion treasury as never was made in the history of the Dominion.

Mr. Meighen: Is that not the Cox group that hon. friend refers to?

Mr. Oliver: I could not say; I do not know.

Mr. Meighen: That is the way I have heard it described—as the George A. Cox group.

Mr. Oliver: Where is Mr. Cox?

Mr. Meighen: It is known as the Cox group. Senator Cox was at the head of the group at that time.

Mr. Oliver: Where is the gentleman who was named the Solicitor-General has used?

Mr. Meighen: He is dead.

Mr. Oliver: For what purpose does my hon. friend drag a dead man's name into this discussion?

Mr. Meighen: I did not drag any name into this discussion.

Mr. Oliver: My hon. friend did.

Mr. Meighen: Has my hon. friend never mentioned in this House the name of one Mack had departed?

Mr. Oliver: I am talking about what I have done. I am talking about what my hon. friend has done.

Mr. Meighen: I have never dishonored the name of any man in this House. I mentioned the name of George A. Cox in connection with the group mentioned by my hon. friend. I do not impugn either him or the group.

Mr. Oliver: Precisely, the group that has discredited the name of Canada.

Mr. Meighen: I did not say so.

Mr. Oliver: I say so.

Mr. Meighen: You lampooned him, I did not.

Mr. Oliver: No, I did not. George A. Cox has passed from this life; he is before another Judge than this Parliament. I did not bring his name here. I am dealing with men who are alive, and who are sitting before me in this House. I say that no such raid was ever made under the terms of this Bill for the benefit of the Bank of Commerce, by a Government which sits here in large measure because of the exertions and activities of the Bank of Commerce and their allies in the city of Toronto.

Political Hypocrisy

I was struck by the suggestion of the Minister of Finance when he deplored the idea that the criticism made by the member for Rouville (Mr. Lemieux) had a political tinge. My hon. friend knows that he and his colleagues sit in the House as the result of one of the wickedest fake campaigns ever carried on in Canada; the most insincere, the most untruthful, the most discreditable that ever took place in this country. Yet my hon. friend deplores the idea of discussing matters that could be construed as having a political connection with a subject that is of the most vital interest to the people. If this proposal is being made honestly in the public interest why is it not put before Parliament in an honest manner? Why are the facts as to the liabilities, the obligations to be assumed by the people under this measure, not stated in so many words?

Mr. Thomas White: I think the information that my hon. friend speaks of has been given very fully. The balance sheet of the last financial year, the liabilities of the Canadian Northern, the liabilities as of June 30, 1916, I filed the other day a further balance sheet showing the assets and liabilities as of the end of April, which is the latest date at which it is possible to obtain such information. I have given, I think, all the information asked for. I have taken the trouble to have Hansard gone over very carefully with a view to seeing whether any information asked for by the committee had been overlooked. I may have a good many faults, but I do not believe that one of them is that of denying information to Parliament.

To Pay or Not to Pay

Mr. Oliver: I am not accusing my hon. friend of denying information; I am saying that the most important Bill that has come before Parliament for many years does not contain the facts and the figures, or set forth the limitations in such manner as to give us a true understanding of how far-reaching it is. It is not a matter of balance sheets; it is a matter of obligations expected or intended to be undertaken. When we asked the minister tonight what was the attitude of the Government with regard to the liabilities of the company, he told us that if there were funds in hand to pay those liabilities, they would be paid. But what will happen if there are no funds in hand to pay those liabilities? Those claims that may be made on construction or other account, are they to be paid, or are they to be repudiated? The committee wants to know just how far the Government is going to go in these matters. In one breath we are told that this does not mean any assumption of liability at all beyond the payment for the stock.

Mr. Thomas White: That is the legal position.

Mr. Oliver: Is that the position the Government is going to take? Because if it is, then we understand the situation. But surely the Government is not going to take that position. Surely the honor of Canada demands that the Government do not take that position; that they do not step into the shoes of the Canadian Northern Railway Company and deal with claims against that company as the company has been dealing with them. If that is what the Government intends to do, then the Government should say so in so many words. It is on such a point as that that I claim the Government has come to us without satisfactory information. We have the right to know what is the attitude of the Government with regard to that matter.

We have a right to know also how far the Government considers itself to be obligated to carry out the undertakings of the Canadian Northern Railway Company; we have not been informed on that subject. In this Bill we are authorizing the Government to do anything it pleases with the Canadian Northern Railway without further authorization from Parliament and without accounting to Parliament for it. When such a transaction amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars, this Parliament will be falling very far short of its duties and responsibilities if it does not at any rate demand the information that will let the country know what is the measure of the liabilities assumed, and what is the nature of the obligations taken upon our shoulders by the terms of this Bill.

A Profitable Tip

There is a feature of this case that it is only fair we should draw to the attention of the committee and of the country when we consider the associations of the transaction. There is outstanding nearly $150,000,000 of the unguaranteed bonds of the Canadian Northern Railway Company. If that company is in default, if it is unable to pay the interest on its bonds, I presume those unguaranteed bonds will stand at a very low market value. They will not be worth a penny; I presume they will not be worth nearly as much, but I know that the day the Government, with a sufficient majority at its back, announced to the people of Canada that they were going to assume the control of this railway, that very day, those bonds rose to par.

Mr. Thomas White: No, they did not.

Mr. Oliver: I know they appreciated

GILLETTE'S LYE

ed very largely in value, and I know those who have knowledge of the relations between the Canadian Northern and the Government were in a position to reap stupendous profits from that knowledge because of that increase in value.

A Gigantic Imposition

This whole transaction from beginning to end is one that does not appeal to the people of Canada as being an honest transaction, to say nothing about its being a provident transaction. We are to be compelled to pay out of the treasury of this country some which may amount to $50,000,000 for that which in today's property under the statute of 1914; and we are doing that at a time when we are passing the hat to get money to maintain the dependents of our soldiers in the field; at a time when the women of Canada are knitting socks to be provided free to our soldiers; at a time when we are implored to save and serve; at a time when we are told that we must cut out personal extravagance of all kinds, we must restrict individual expenditure in every line, we must restrict what we eat and what we wear; at a time when we are not able to meet, as we should do, all the demands made upon us because of the exigencies of war—at that time, upwards of $50,000,000 is to be taken out of the treasury of Canada to be handed over to the Canadian Bank of Commerce in order that we may have the privilege of carrying the present obligations of the Canadian Northern Railway Company and the further inestimable privilege of mismanaging the 9,000 miles of the track which that company owns.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Cook

Uncle Wiggily and Jackie's Bone

Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Bang! Crack! Smash!" went something in the hollow stump bungalow. Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman.

"My goodness me sakes alive and some rice pudding lollypops!" cried Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady nurse. "What was that?"

"I think I was window that broke," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, that's what it was," said another voice, and up the steps of the bungalow ran Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy.

A window broken! exclaimed the bunny rabbit gentleman. "How did it happen?"

"We boys did it, playing ball," explained Jackie. "Sammy Little, and my brother Peetie, and Jimmie Wigglesworth, the duck, and Charlie Chick and Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, we were all playing and I knocked the ball through your glass window and broke it."

"Oh, dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily. "But we'll pay for it, and buy you a new one," went on Jackie. "We took up a collection and we got the money for a new window. You come with me, Uncle Wiggily, and tell the man the size of the glass and I'll get the money to pay for it. Come on!"

"Well, I'm sure that's very nice of you animal boys to pay for windows when you break them, playing ball," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll come with you right away and we'll go to the glass store."

"And you'll have to get some putty, too, to make the window light stick in," said Jackie.

"Oh, of course," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "And if there's any putty left over, may I have it to blow in my putty blower?" asked the puppy dog boy.

"Of course," promised Uncle Wiggily. "So off he started to get a new light of glass to put in where the one was broken."

"I'm not going to let Jackie and his friends pay for the broken window," whispered Uncle Wiggily to Nurse Jane as he went out. "I'll let Jackie buy it and then I'll give him back the money."

"Good!" said the muskrat lady. "The other animal boys went to another place to play while Jackie and Uncle Wiggily hopped and trotted to the glass store to get the window light and some putty. Jackie told the monkey doctress gentleman the right size, and the bunny rabbit gentleman carried back the glass, for fear Jackie might drop and break it."

"You may carry the putty, Jackie," said the bunny rabbit. "Dropping that doesn't hurt it a bit."

So Jackie carried the putty and he and Uncle Wiggily were almost back at the hollow stump bungalow when, all at once, out from behind a tree there jumped a bad fox.

"Oh, ho!" barked the fox. "I am in luck I see! A puppy dog and a nice fat rabbit! Oh, ho! I certainly am in luck!"

"Do you mean you are going to catch us?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "That's just what I mean," snickered the fox.

"And me, too?" asked Jackie. "Yes, you also," went on the fox. "But first, I'll catch Uncle Wiggily and take a taste of him to see how I like him. I'll begin to bite some souse off his ear, I guess."

"Oh dear!" cried the bunny rabbit. "Will no one save me from the bad fox?"

But there did not seem to be any one to save him. The fox was just going to bite the bunny when suddenly Jackie began springing around on the ground. Then he began to dig with his paws.

"Pooh! You needn't think you can dig a hole and hide in it!" sneered the fox. "I'll get you, anyhow."

"I'm not digging a hole to hide in," said Jackie, still making the dirt fly. "I'm digging a hole to find a bone I buried here the other day and here it is! Now look out for yourself, bad Mr. Fox!"

With that Jackie dug up a long round bone, with a hole all the way through it like a putty blower.

"Now you let my friend Uncle Wiggily go!" cried Jackie. "I'll blow him away with this bone!"

With that he took some of the putty that was to hold in the window glass, and putting a hard putty bullet in the hollow bone blower, Jackie blew it at the fox.

"Bang!" went the putty, hitting the fox on his nose. "Bang!" went more putty, as Jackie blew it, hitting the fox in the eyes.

"Oh, wow! I'll be good! I didn't know you could dig up a bone putty blower and shoot me!" cried the fox, and then he let go of Uncle Wiggily and ran away to find his nose in an ice water spring.

So it was a good thing, after all, that Jackie broke Uncle Wiggily's window, and if the blue Jay bird doesn't splash red ink on the best white bed spread when it's bleaching on the

SUFFERED TERRIBLY

For Four Days and Nights From DIARRHOEA

Diarrhoea arises from many causes such as change of diet, change of water, change of climate, catching cold, the eating of unripe fruits or anything that will cause an excess of bile.

On the first sign of any looseness of the bowels it should not be neglected, but should be looked after immediately, for if not diarrhoea, dysentery or some other serious bowel complaint may ensue.

Miss Florence Harfield, 325 Lauder Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with a violent diarrhoea. I suffered terribly with it for four days and nights, and finally I became so weak I did not think I could stand it any longer. My sister advised me to try a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I did so, and after I had taken three doses I felt a whole lot relieved. I kept on taking it, and by the time I had taken six doses, the diarrhoea had completely stopped. It did not leave me constipated. I think it a wonderful remedy, as it is so quick to act. I will recommend it to all my friends."

There are so many spurious "Strawberry" preparations sold that you should see that the name "Dr. Fowler's" is on every bottle you buy. Price 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT HELPED HER

"Fruit-a-tives" Again Proves Its Extraordinary Powers.

Rochon, Que., March 2nd, 1916.

"I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable without results. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well—the Rheumatism has disappeared, and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. I hope that others, who suffer from such distressing diseases, will try 'Fruit-a-tives'."

KING EDWARD PARK HOLDS LAWN SOCIAL

Varied Program of Events Excited Keen Interest Among Residents of Suburb

The lawn social held in connection with St. David's Mission on Saturday afternoon was a most successful affair and quite a large gathering collected to witness the various field sports, notwithstanding the fact that the weather shortly after noon hour and up till 2 o'clock was not of the best. However at half past two the clouds lifted, the sun came out, and the warm light breeze soon put the turf in good order for the racing and other ground events. This put new life into the members of the committee and all present. A very lengthy and splendid program of sports were listed on the program consisting of racing for the children of all ages and for men and women also, these being the main attractions. These were splendidly organized there being no waiting, and every event was watched with great interest and evidently much enjoyed by the onlookers and competitors alike.

Several new items were introduced, the standing high jump, running high jump and the pillow fight which ended the afternoon's fun, creating more than ordinary interest. Indeed the last mentioned event was a source of a great deal of boisterous laughter. The potato race for boys and girls, the egg and spoon race, and also the three-legged race for men and women were three events which drew forth great applause from the onlookers.

Two large marquees and a ginsy tent were erected on the grounds. The refreshments supplied were of the best, calling forth much praise from those who partook of them and ladies and gentlemen of the committee of management deserve great credit for the way they worked to make such a success of this outdoor function. The committee deserves to thank all helpers and especially the local tradesmen for so generously donating the prizes.

In the evening the grounds were illuminated with Chinese lanterns and other lights and the side show attractions were well patronized. Mr. W. McGill kindly entertained the gathering by rendering a number of gramophone selections.
